“Workshops” link (green, upper right in header)

The screenshot shows the header of the RossBiology website. On the left is a portrait of Joseph A. Ross. In the center, the text reads: "RossBIOLOGY the research laboratory of Joseph A. Ross, Ph.D. Associate Professor Department of Biology : California State University, Fresno". Below this is a Twitter follow button for @rossbiology and links to "Tablet Pedagogy Blog" and "EduProffer Blog". On the right is a micrograph of a C. elegans worm, labeled "Caenorhabditis briggsae". A navigation bar at the bottom of the header contains links: Home | News | Research | People | Publications | Resources | Teaching | Workshops | Contact. The "Workshops" link is highlighted in green and circled in red. Below the header, the text "WORKSHOP MATERIALS" is centered, followed by a line of text: "Education workshop materials from 2018 to present are linked below:".
